·External Assesor·

External tutoring for the design of interactive objects

Interaction with students of design and the accompaniment as external consultant of some exploration processes facilitated the cultural exchange, the pedagogical contrast and the construction of ideas of joint way between actors of different contexts. It is one of the most significant experiences of this internship.

Transdisciplinary Collaboration
co-creation and critiquing training methods

Although transdisciplinary collaboration is associated with efficiency and efficacy to solve professional and academic challenges, untrained teams may under-perform because of collective cognitive limitations such as less ideation power, planning fallacies, or overvalue of shared beliefs.

Virtual Reality Interface - MediaLab HKDI

The explorations of the drawing find their connection with virtual reality in the 360º illustrations, in which the user can determine his perspective from an anchored point of view. The Value of hand drawings at the sketch level offers a sensitive experience of the environment that can be repeated in other scenarios.
